What is the IGDS Workshop?

The IGDS Workshop, uniquely focused on aging and diabetes, brings together clinicians, researchers, key opinion leaders (KOLs), patients, and care partners to address the growing complexity of diabetes care in aging populations. The program includes two full days of scientific lectures, research presentations, patient-centered sessions, and expert panel discussions. The meeting will focus on diagnostic nuance, therapeutic and technological advances, cognitive and functional considerations, and care delivery models for older adults.

Earn Up to 12.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™

Who Should Attend?

This program is designed for physicians and advanced practice providers seeking a comprehensive clinical update in care of older adults with diabetes. The course is ideal for geriatricians, endocrinologists, primary care physicians, internists, hospitalists, diabetes educators, nurse practitioners, physician assistants,
